

The President
lives in the White House

Cats can drive cars

Ice is Cold

Lying is always wrong

Torture of suspected terrorists is acceptable to save lives

I saw a bright light and a tunnel during a near-death
experience; therefore,
God exists

There are universal moral standards that apply to all human beings regardless of where they live

The Sky is blue

The Moon is closer to us than the Sun

It is always moral to feed homeless people

After bodily death a person continues to exist in a nonphysical form

The ultimate goal in life is to live as pleasurable as possible

I am now the same person that I was when I was five years old

I am always responsible for my actions

To allow an innocent child to suffer needlessly when one could easily prevent it is morally reprehensible (wrong)

It is wrong to impose the death penalty

The best way to treat depression is to inject chemicals into the brain

If I had been born into a different environment, I might have become a professional killer

It is impossible to know anything with absolute certainty

The future is fixed; how one's life unfolds is a matter of destiny

The life of a young child is more valuable than the life of a twenty-two-year-old college student

If God does not exist, then there are no moral obligations, and no action is right or wrong

There is no such things as true facts; there are only interpretations

The possession and use of marijuana should be made legal across all 50 states

Computers will never be able to think like human beings can think.

High school students love to start rumors and ruin people's reputations

In order to vote people should be required to pass an intelligence exam